

Skilling Australia's Defence Industry (SADI) Program Funding

Defence Industry personnel attending Nova Systems courses may qualify for funding assistance from the Skilling Australia's Defence Industry (SADI) program if the training addresses the SADI Strategic Statement of Requirements. It is important to note that SADI funding may only be accessed through Defence Industry organisations and not by individuals. The SADI Program initiative addresses the significant shortfall in the quantity and quality of defence workforce skills available to defence industry to ensure that the Australian Defence Force has the capabilities it needs to defend Australia and its national interests.

This commitment provides industry with assistance to meet the three program outcomes:

- up-skilling existing employees, and
- improving the quality and quantity of skills training in defence industry
- the generation of additional skilled positions

For more information as to whether your organisation may qualify for SADI assistance, please follow the link to:
